Protests continue at clinic

By DENA BISNETTE

Picketing continued through Tuesday in front of the New Woman Clinic on US-90, but was apparently interrupted Wednesday morning by rain.

Pickets, carrying signs with pro-life slogans on them, said Tuesday that they were protesting because the clinic provides abortions. They declined to be identified other than as "concerned citizens" and one said they planned to continue picketing "as long as it takes to prove our point."

The picketing started Saturday after several local clergymen and more than 30 citizens held a parade and a memorial service in front of the clinic.

Vicki Raley, a registered nurse and the clinic's administrator, stated that the picketers have done nothing illegal so far. "This is a private parking lot and they could be considered trespassers if they enter it, but so far they have stayed on the road easement," she said.

However, she said the clinic operators, who also run a similar facility in Jackson, are conferring with attorneys about the picketers.

"What we want to do is limit their interference with our business," she said. "They certainly have the right to their beliefs and to express their beliefs but our patients also have a right to personal privacy."

Ms. Raley said some patients have indicated that they are frightened by the protesters, while others have reacted with anger.

She noted that the picketers have not harassed patients, although one female picketer approached a patient in the parking lot Saturday but left when she was told she was on private property.

"There has been no violence. I've talked with several of the local clergymen involved in this and I've been assured that there won't be any violence."

The clinic director, Martha Fuqua, who was in Jackson Tuesday, said in a telephone interview that the major concern of the clinic personnel is protection of patients, who are provided with pregnancy testing, adoption counseling, cancer tests and other services in addition to abortions. She said the clinic would back a patient if she decided to sue the protesters for invasion of privacy.

"They have no compassion for the patient, no compassion for the person who has been raped, or the one who is 49 and pregnant or has been exposed to x-rays or toxins, or the 13-year-old who has been a victim of incest," Ms. Fuqua said of the picketers.

"They're so concerned with the potential life, but not with the person who has already been born."

She also objected to the use of the label "Christians" by many of the protesters. "I really resent the fact that they are representing this as a Christian moral issue, when some religions believe in free choice with regard to abortions and when we have ministers who assist us with counseling at the clinics."

"They claim pity and compassion for the unborn, when they should use that for the women who come here. Most of these women have problems. They aren't looking for something that's easy and convenient, as these people claim they are," she added.

Both Ms. Fuqua and Ms. Raley said they were having difficulty finding out who organized the picket line. They said they have talked with picketers and asked their names, but have gotten cooperation only from the ministers.

Ms. Raley also said she isn't sure how long the protesters will stay in front of the clinic and whether it's actually a serious protest.

"This group today irritates me more than the others, because they're out there laughing like this is a party or something. If it's a serious protest, why aren't they serious?"

She said the operators of the clinic had expected some protesters, but said this week is the only incident of prolonged picketing she has seen.

Chief denies charges in $2 million lawsuit

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

Bay St. Louis Police Chief Douglas Williams Tuesday denied the allegations in Donnell Michael Anderson's lawsuit against Bay St. Louis and South Central Bell.

The $2 million lawsuit was filed July 19 in U.S. District Court by Anderson, a resident of Bay St. Louis and employee of South Central Bell.

"The allegations are unfounded and inaccurate," Williams said.

"His charges of unjust arrest, harassment and incarceration are totally untrue and will be proven so at the proper time."

Defendants in the suit include the City of Bay St. Louis, the police chief, Captain Robert Butler of the Bay police department, South Central Bell Telephone Co. and Dan Hill and Bill Norris, security managers for the phone company.

Anderson's complaint alleges that on July 22, 1983, Norris and Hill, who were conducting an investigation concerning missing telephone units, visited Anderson's home and harassed him there.

According to the complaint, they then visited the police department, defamed Anderson's reputation by alleging him to be a thief, and incited Williams and Butler to arrest and harass him.

The complaint states Butler, at Williams' direction, caused Anderson's arrest and incarceration.

Williams said police department records do not show that Anderson was incarcerated on July 22 or any other time in 1983.

Bay St. Louis may get new FM radio channel

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

Either Bay St. Louis or Long Beach, or possibly both, should receive a FM radio channel, according to an Federal Communications Commission spokesman.

Bay St. Louis was one of 686 communities throughout the United States named earlier this year by the FCC as a potential new FM channel site.

In response to that announcement, Ira Hatchett of WXGR Radio in Bay St. Louis officially expressed an interest in adding FM capability to the WXGR station.

But Mrs. Jo Anne Yates of Long Beach submitted a counterproposal, requesting that Long Beach be considered as the site, according to Kathy Shirley of FCC's Policy and Rules Division, Allocations Branch.

Shirley said Tuesday one of the two communities will definitely receive an allocation.

It is "conceivable" that both communities may receive an allocation, she said.

"But not for the same channel, of course," she added.

Hancock man killed in Texas shooting

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

The shooting death of a Hancock County man in Liberty, Tex. Sunday has been ruled an accident pending further investigation.

Liberty Police Department Investigator Paul Staton said Mark Anthony Howell, 28, of the Rocky Hill community was apparently dead at the scene of the shooting when Officer Glenn Love arrived at 2227 Grand St. after receiving a call at 3:18 a.m. July 29.

According to Staton, when Love arrived he was met outside the house by two residents, Gary Tompkins, 21, and Robby Shores, 24.

Love found Howell on the floor in the kitchen.

"Apparently he had suffered a single gunshot wound to the chest," Staton reported.

Love found no pulse and no respiration, Staton said, and when medical personnel from the fire department arrived shortly thereafter they confirmed a lack of vital signs.

Staton said he and a justice of the peace were then called.

"The justice of the peace performed an inquest and ordered an autopsy." Shores stated that he and the victim had been discussing cleaning a rifle," Staton said.

According to Shores' statement, Howell was to show Shores how to disassemble and clean the weapon, and as Shores was handing the rifle to Howell the hammer evidently was cocked back and the rifle discharged, Staton said.

"The status of the case at this point is an accidental shooting," Staton said, "but the case is still open and we're waiting for results of the autopsy, which should be available in four to six weeks."

Council finds cost overruns

By DENA BISNETTE

The Bay St. Louis City Council got a $67,100 surprise Tuesday night with its amended general budget.

The budget, amended from a total of $1,548,700 to $1,762,870 for the fiscal year that will end in September, contained about $67,100 in cost overruns for the street department alone.

The original budget for the street department was $155,000. It was expanded to $222,100 to include additional money for equipment repair and maintenance, City Clerk Eddie Favre told the council.

Favre said some of the overrun was caused by the need to purchase or rent additional equipment and by some unanticipated engineering fees, but most of the $67,100 was for repair and maintenance of old equipment.

When Councilman Harry Farve asked why the council had not been informed of the problem, Favre said Mayor Larry Bennett and the head of the street department had been aware of the situation for three or four months.

"It shouldn't have been this long before it got to the council," Councilman Farve said. "We're the ones who have to pay the bills. We should have been made aware of this."

"We can understand if a department has more equipment repairs than they expected to have when we made out the budget, but if they see it's going to be this high they should let us know," he added.

The second biggest discrepancy between the original budget and the amended budget was in the police department's expenses, where about $14,000 had to be added for vehicle repair and maintenance.

Dr. Webb dies before event he founded

Dr. James W. Webb, curator of William Faulkner's home, Rowan Oak, and professor emeritus of English at The University of Mississippi, died July 25, 1984—just days before the beginning of the 11th annual international Faulkner and Yoknapatawpha Conference, which he helped found.

Dr. Webb served on the Ole Miss faculty for three decades. He joined the Department of English as an assistant professor in 1947. He was named associate professor in 1958 and professor of English in 1961. Dr. Webb served as chairman of the English Department from 1961 until his retirement as professor emeritus of English in 1975.

Dr. Webb earned the bachelor of science degree in 1933 from Mississippi State University and the master of arts in 1946 and the doctor of philosophy degree in 1958 at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Born in Noxapater, Miss., on May 17, 1910, Dr. Webb taught at Bond High School in Philadelphia, Miss., and at Chamberlain-Hunt Academy in Port Gibson, Miss., prior to joining the Ole Miss faculty.

During his tenure at Ole Miss, he also served as director of personnel from 1955 to 1960.

Dr. Webb first met William Faulkner in 1948, while an assistant professor of English at Ole Miss. He later co-authored "William Faulkner of Oxford" with Dr. A. Wigfall Green.

His involvement with Rowan Oak began in 1962 when Jill Faulkner Sumners leased the house to the university after her father's death. Though Mrs. Faulkner continued to use the house for short stays during the summers, it was usually unoccupied and in need of some renovation. Dr. Webb personally supervised and helped make these repairs, taking them on in addition to his duties as chairman of the English department.

"Dr. Webb was dedicated to the memory of William Faulkner. With tact, patience and foresight, he undertook the leading role in the university's efforts to honor that memory," said Dr. Evans Harrington, current chairman of the English department.

"He is the single person most responsible for the university's being able to purchase Faulkner's home Rowan Oak. And it was there in August 1970 that he and his assistant discovered the treasure trove of Faulkner manuscripts hidden in a broom closet. He later catalogued the Rowan Oak papers after they were purchased by the university in 1982. A lion's share of the credit for the university's internationally-recognized achievements in furthering scholarship on Faulkner should go to this tireless gentleman."

Dr. Harrington said that this year's Faulkner Conference has been dedicated to the memory of Dr. Webb.

Quotables by CUEVAS

Over the years we have encouraged businesses and individuals to fly American Flags to show their patriotism.

On occasion we hear of a business or individual reporting someone has stolen their flag.

We feel this is a terrible disgrace to our nation for someone to be so low as to steal a flag.

There are several places where two and three flags have been removed by culprits.

Since the American Flag stands for so much in our nation, it is our opinion there should be some severe fines for culprits illegally removing them.

We urge any citizen seeing anyone removing someone else's flag to please call the police immediately.

Stop signs were one of the topics of discussion at the Monday Hancock County board of supervisors meeting.

A resolution was passed by the county governing body requesting law enforcement officers to try and help keep stop signs up throughout the county.

Every member of the board of supervisors reported numerous signs being removed in their respective districts.

As a for instance, in BaySide Park, six months ago some 50 signs were reportedly installed with only four remaining last week.

A serious accident occurred last week at one of the intersections in BaySide Park, sending two people to the hospital.

Supervisor foremen report replacement of signs is a constant job. This costs the taxpayers in salaries in addition to the high cost of purchasing replacement signs.

The burden for the replacement of any sign ends up on the shoulders of the tax payers.

Big things will be happening in Waveland this weekend with the annual St. Clare School Fishing Rodeo and Fair.

On Friday night the big event will be the annual fish fry at the school's cafeteria starting at 3 p.m.

Waveland Mayor John Longo has been busy gathering delicious seafood and his regular chefs only have to get the grease hot.

We usually manage to get our fill of seafood and it is as good or better than from most restaurants.

This is a good chance for mothers to get out of the kitchen Friday night and also enjoy some good eating.

Fred Peterman, fair chairman, has been very busy along with his helpers in promoting a big Fishing Rodeo for Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

There is an entry fee, but we understand some nice trophies will be awarded in several categories.

On Saturday and Sunday there will be a Miss & Beau Pageant with some nice trophies for the winners.

Sunday afternoon will highlight a 5K and one mile run which appear to also be interesting events.

We wish all participants good luck in the fishing rodeo and also the races.

We hope to see you at the fair.

While on the subject of fishing, we feel congratulations should go to the Gulf Coast Sportsman's Club and everyone who helped with the organization's kids fishing rodeo last Saturday.

We have visited many fishing rodeos over the years, and Saturday's event was the largest we have witnessed for kids.

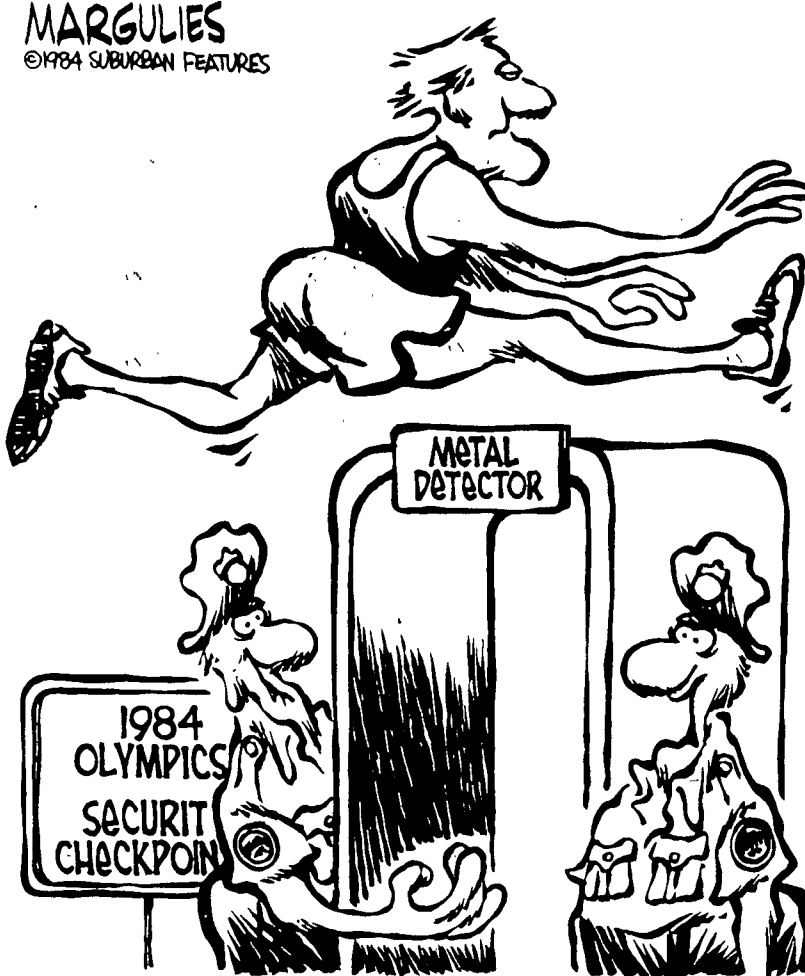

Young fishermen were strung out from Bayou Cadet to the mouth of the Jourdan River.

When you consider some 250 plus participants were registered, that is a lot of children.

We do understand fathers and grandfathers were kept busy working on 'birds nests' and a few reels were worn out by the young fishermen.

So congratulations also to the participants.

Taylor sits on Senate committee studying Worker's Compensation

The chairman of the Mississippi Workers' Compensation Commission has presented to a Senate study committee several recommendations for reform of the state's Worker's Compensation Law including provisions for vocational rehabilitation.

A nine-man Senate committee is studying the law to make recommendations for its reform in the 1985 Legislative session.

Professor John R. Bradley of the University of Mississippi Law School, explained that the philosophy of workers' compensation is that work injuries are compensated without regard for who is responsible for the injury occurring.

Marshall Bennett, chairman of the Workers' Compensation Commission, told the Senators that the three-man commission had unanimously agreed upon several recommendations for reform of the law.

He said that the law should be amended to provide for "meaningful and practical benefits for vocational rehabilitation of injured workers" with up to $5,000 in benefits for this purpose.

He pointed out that presently the commission can refer cases only to the State Department of Vocational Rehabilitation which has limited funds.

If benefits were given to the worker, rehabilitation could be obtained through private sources and allow the person to get back into the work force.

Other recommendations of the commission included: allowing direct appeal of cases from the Workers' Compensation Commission to the Supreme Court, bypassing the circuit courts; establishing a guaranty fund for self-insureds so that a company would be able to pay benefits in the event of a catastrophe injuring a number of workers; eliminate the use of mortality and remarriage tables in figuring lump sum benefits for death; and raise the salary of the commission court reporters which is currently $17,000 set by law.

Bennett also recommended changing the way funds are assessed to support the commission's $2.2 million budget.

The commission is not funded by tax dollars, but by assessment based on money paid for workers' lost time.

The commission recommends basing the assessment on premiums paid to the insurance companies with self-insureds also assessed. Bennett noted that under the present method, some are using the services of the commission but are not assessed anything.

During the hearing, advocates of employees, employers and insurance companies voiced their opposing opinions about the law.

Jerry McBride, representing the Mississippi Manufacturers Association, said that the law does not need a major overhaul, but that settlement of claims without litigation should be encouraged.

Claude Ramsay, president of the Mississippi AFL-CIO, and attorneys Dixon Pyles and Lee Coleman voiced concern over retaliatory firing where they claim employers fire employees who have filed workers' compensation claims.

Pyles also advocated extending workers compensation coverage to all workers. Presently, businesses with fewer than five employees and employees such as farm and household workers are not required to be covered.

Members of the Study Committee are Senator Martin Smith of Poplarville, chairman; Senator Bill Minor of Holly Springs, vice chairman; and Senators Doug Anderson of Jackson, Jay Disharoon of Hazlehurst, Bunky Huggins of Greenwood, John T. Keeton Jr. of Grenada, Rick Lambert of Hattiesburg, Con Maloney of Jackson and Gene Taylor of Bay St. Louis.

News From The Governor's Office

Gov. Bill Allain

By GOVERNOR BILL ALLAIN

With the publication of this column, I am initiating a weekly communication with the people of Mississippi about the activities of your Governor's Office.

I hope subjects and projects covered in these discussions will be of interest to you and will encourage you to offer your suggestions and opinions to us.

I carefully selected this week's topic because I believe it is one of the grimmest problems facing our state today—the problem of protecting our young people from the dangers of drunk driving.

On July 2, the Governor's Office—in cooperation with the Department of Public Safety and various state elected officials—kicked off a program we have named "Mississippi 21." Our goal is to raise the legal drinking age to 21.

On that day, we hosted a rally at the State Capitol that was attended by more than 200 concerned Mississippians, including parents, teenagers, law enforcement officials, and victims or relatives of victims of drunk driving crashes.

Since that time, many people have asked me why we are so committed to raising the drinking age. It's an easy question with a sad answer.

Teenagers were involved in 19 percent, or 117, of all fatal traffic accidents in Mississippi last year, but they only make up 9 percent of all licensed drivers in the state. About 400 people died in drunken driving accidents on Mississippi roads and highways last year, and the total economic impact amounted to $387 million in damages, including injuries, property destruction and lost work time.

In our state, drinking in high school is Mississippi's No. 1 drug problem. Some 60 percent of all fatally injured teenage drivers have alcohol in their blood. In the first five months of 1984, 31 teenagers in the 18 to 20 year age range were killed on Mississippi highways.

There is no measure of the tragedy caused by the death of a young person; there is no justification for ending a life before it ever had a chance to approach its full potential.

We are not just guessing about how to reduce this problem. Twenty-three states have raised their legal drinking age to 21. And studies in those states show an average reduction of 28 percent in fatal accidents involving teenagers.

Last year, my office testified before numerous legislative committees in an effort to get the age increased. Parents and students were very supportive and many were leaders in this attempt. However, some legislators had reservations about the best method of enforcing such a law. This year we are organizing every group interested in this effort and encouraging them to work together to get a law approved by the 1985 Legislature.

Of course, the best way to accomplish this is to write or call your senator or representative and urge them to support a bill raising the drinking age to 21.

in Mississippi.

Already, Senate Judiciary Chairman Martin Smith of Poplarville has promised to sponsor this legislation in the 1985 session.

Leading up to the 1985 Legislative session, we are planning a number of activities that we hope will culminate with the passage of the legislation early in the session, which convenes in January. Our plans include the distribution of radio announcements, a series of public hearings throughout the state, and a statewide conference in Jackson on drunken driving on October 31 through November 2.

In the meantime, you may encounter some of the most frequently heard arguments against raising the drinking age—chiefly, that if young people are old enough to vote and old enough to fight for their country, they are old enough to drink.

We dispute those arguments. There is no relationship between a person's ability to vote or serve in the military and consumption of alcohol.

Nobody I know of ever got killed in a voting booth.

And you're trained to go to war; you're not trained to drink.

Our young people are Mississippi's most precious assets. Far too many of them are being killed and seriously injured because of drunk-driving. If you are interested in helping us with this project, please contact me at Mississippi 21, P.O. Box 139, Jackson, MS 39206. Together we can get something done.

Gov. Bill Allain has announced that some of the initiatives of the Governor's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports have been phased into the Governor's Office of Human Development (GOHD); in an effort to better address the needs of elderly and handicapped Mississippians.

Michael Raff, director of the Office of Human Development, said Fenton DeWeese will coordinate the unit's activities during the three to six month period that an assessment is conducted to determine if a council can be reestablished. DeWeese currently serves as administrative assistant to Raff.

The thrust of the office will change Raff said, since there are no funds available to continue the council's former sports activities. "We will instead be concerned with establishing fitness and health programs for elderly and handicapped individuals," he said. "There are few programs designed to offer physical recreation to older and disabled citizens, and this new emphasis will allow us to address some of their health and physical fitness needs," Raff said.

GOHD currently is comprised of five agencies—the Governor's Commission for Children and Youth, the Governor's Office of Handicapped Services, the Governor's Office of Voluntary Citizen Participation, the Governor's Office of Energy and Community Services and the Mississippi Council on Aging.

Lieutenant governor reports on Senate committee studies

Lieutenant Governor Brad Dye told the Mississippi Association of Supervisors Friday that five special Senate committees are working during the summer and fall on issues that affect county government and all citizens.

"There has been a lot of concern that reappraisal of property would shift the burden for ad valorem taxes from utilities to property owners. The Senate Finance Committee has been studying Mississippi's method of assessing and taxing public utility property in comparison with that of other states. The goal of the study is to make sure that taxes are applied fairly and equitably to all citizens and businesses," Dye said.

He noted that at a public hearing on the subject Jesse Greer of the Supervisors Association and several county tax assessors testified.

The lieutenant governor said that a committee is also studying the entire tax structure of the state and its political subdivisions. Some of the taxes being studied are sales, severance, privilege, insurance premium, contractors, vending machine, casual sale of motor vehicles, chain store and mail order in addition to blue laws, bond programs and highway financing including state aid roads.

Another committee is reviewing the Workers Compensation Act.

"This subject has polarized the Senate probably more than any other. There were over 500 bills introduced in the regular session with only five passing. The goal of the committee is to provide a system that gets the highest benefits for employees at the lowest cost to the employer," Dye said, noting that several counties participate in Workers Compensation.

Dye said that the Public Health Study Committee is looking at state health agencies and the private sector to see ways to make health care more efficient and less costly. He said that the Senators would be making announced and unannounced visits to state agencies and facilities, and full committee meetings would be held in North and South Mississippi.

The Pearl River Flooding Study Committee is looking at all alternatives to minimize flooding up and down the Pearl River with the least inconvenience as possible, he told the supervisors.

Dye concluded his speech by explaining to the supervisors the importance of voting for the proposed constitutional amendment regarding ethics of public officials when it appears on the November ballot.

"If the present law were strictly enforced under its recent interpretation, many public officials would be forced to leave office and probably only the wealthy would be able to serve. The amendment will prohibit an official from doing business with or having interest in a business which contracts with the level of government in which he serves. I believe that this approach is fair to the citizens and to public officials," the lieutenant governor said.

Support letters urged to pave Texas Flat Road

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT
Monday the Hancock County Board of Supervisors heard from several of their constituents who want Texas Flat Road paved.

Hilda Bourg and Mary Caillier of the Hancock County Park Commission both spoke to the need for improving the road.

So did Harvey Nixon, vice-president of Moore, Nixon and Associates Inc., management/development consultants of Picayune.

Nixon, who is working with a group in Catahoula to obtain federal funds for a water distribution system, urged the supervisors to obtain letters of support from local industries along the road, which begins at Highway 603 south of Kiln and ends at the National Space Technology Laboratories.

"We have to have some justification if we're going to re-do the road," he said, adding it would be necessary to obtain a cost estimate for the work.

Texas Flat Road is the only access road to McLeod Water Park and to gas production fields west of the park.

Industries along the road include Phillips Petroleum and Whitfield Timber Company.

"Paving the road would also put the Army Ammunition Plant in closer proximity to Stennis International Airport," noted James DeBlanc, executive director of the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission.

Caillier said attendance at McLeod Park has been "cut in half" because of road problems, adding she was sure an endorsement supporting road paving could be obtained from the Pearl River Development District.

Bourg said a 1981 preliminary study prepared by Advanced Developments Inc. estimated the cost of improving the 1.57 miles of Texas Flat Road from Highway 603 to McLeod Park at $488,000.

But, Board President A.A. Kellar noted, the total length of the road is about 12 miles.

In other business Monday the supervisors:

—Scheduled a public hearing at 2 p.m. on Aug. 8 regarding an application for a Small Cities Community Development Block Grant of up to $325,000 to be used by the Catahoula Water Association for a water distribution system for the area west of Kiln.

—Appointed Supervisors Sam Perniciaro and Roger Dale Ladner to Gulf Regional Economic Development Corporation, a service organization for Gulf Regional Planning Commission.

Michael Haas, representing GRPC, told the supervisors that GRPC recently amended its bylaws to provide for representation from the supervisors in addition to recently-appointed members Buddy Klein and Douglas Nicaise.

—Voted unanimously to voice their strong opposition to bowhunting deer on NASA property. (See additional articles in the Sports section.)

—Agreed to ask Mississippi's Congressional delegation to consider another site for the Farmers Home Administration office in Hancock County.

—FmHA Supervisor Jackie Williams said later Monday that he had not specifically requested the supervisors to take such action.

—Approved the Port and Harbor Commission's operating budget for 1984-85 in the amount of $244,300, a $4,300 increase over the 1983-84 budget which DeBlanc said represented a 25-cents-per-hour salary increase for all employees.

—Authorized Borgen Engineering, Inc. to prepare necessary documents to obtain a new permit relating to discharge of waste effluents in connection with the proposed sewage treatment plant at Stennis International Airport.

—Authorized the leasing of two buildings at Port Bienville Industrial Park by Hancock County Terminal Co. for $500 per month with a 45-day cancellation clause.

—Authorized Advanced Developments Inc. to coordinate resident inspection of taxiway work at Stennis International Airport during critical work stages.

—Agreed to ask County Engineer Lawrence Seal to attend the board's meeting on Aug. 6 to discuss the status of work on Firetower Road and other state aid projects.

RSVP report

By Theresa James
RSVP Director

Volunteers in Hancock County have been very busy in spite of the warm weather.

We want to thank the members and officers of American Legion Post 77, Waveland, for providing a place for our volunteers to take blood pressures. Volunteers Marion Quinlan, Pere Cabibi and Julia Loup have been taking blood pressures in the American Legion Hall every Tuesday morning at 9:30 to 11 a.m. This has been a big help because of the renovation of the civic center in Waveland. We also want to thank them for being there and offering to help when needed.

Theresa Hubert has organized a group of volunteers, including members of the American Legion Auxiliary of Post 77, to provide a bingo game every third Monday at the Reed Hotel Nursing Home. With help from both the American Legion and the Auxiliary, prizes are provided for the patients. The first game was held on Monday, July 23 and Theresa Hubert reported that a good time was had by all.

We hope more volunteers will join her and also the group of volunteers who hold bingo games every first and third Friday at the Dixie White House. Many people have provided prizes for the patients at this nursing home, too. We thank all of those who take the time to help those who are less fortunate than themselves.

The American Legion has also been providing the hall and help with the refreshments for our annual volunteer recognition luncheon which we hold every September. The date we have set is Friday, Sept. 21. This is a special day for recognizing all of the hours volunteers have contributed to our community during the past year. We have some volunteers who have been active since we began operation in 1973. We will honor them especially, since they have been volunteering for 11 years.

Since February 1984, RSVP has been operating the Senior Craft Shop on Highway 90 with two senior aids, Wilma Miller and Joyce Hill and volunteers. We are very proud of the fact that we have many articles made by senior citizens for sale. Many hours are donated by all of the people involved in manning the shop and because of this, our sales have increased greatly. Thanks to all of you who helped make this shop a success.

We applied for and received a new van last month. It is larger than the old one and we are able to transport more volunteers to their respective station. We are very proud of the fact that the United Way has made it possible for us to obtain a new van. We were lucky to receive it when we did, because the air conditioner on the old van quit working just after we received the new one.

We will soon have the lettering on the side of the van, thanks to another volunteer who will donate his services to RSVP. There are a few minor adjustments to be made on the van and then we hope to get years of service from it. It is a beautiful blue, a change from the old van.

We will be taking volunteers to the World's Fair in New Orleans on Monday, Aug. 20—Hancock County Day at the fair. Many of our volunteers who have helped out at the Chamber of Commerce office will be going with us on that day. Charles Johnson, our driver, will be among the many people who will be entertaining that day at the Mississippi exhibit.

Rape, vandalism charges filed

James Ernie Lee, Route Two, Pass Christian, is being held in the Hancock County Jail on rape charges.

According to Investigator Delbert Seay, Lee was arrested at his residence by sheriff's deputies Don Coss and Albert Biehl late Saturday afternoon.

Lee allegedly raped a woman in a car parked on Dedeaux Road at about 5 p.m. Saturday.

Judge Bruce Nicaise has set bond for Lee at $50,000.

Also arrested was a juvenile accused of vandalizing Charles B. Murphy Elementary School in Pearlinton.

The vandalism, which included broken windows, doors, locks and furniture and ink spread over floors and desks, occurred Saturday. Seay called the damage "extensive."

Hancock County School District officials are still working on an estimate. The arrest was made Saturday in Pearlinton and the juvenile has been turned over to the county youth court.

In the process, the program gives viewers a portrait of a man who played a key role in organizing those movements until his shooting death by a former protege' in 1980.

The film traces Lowenstein's life from his formative childhood influences to the political work that motivated his adult life, a few years of which were spent in Mississippi.

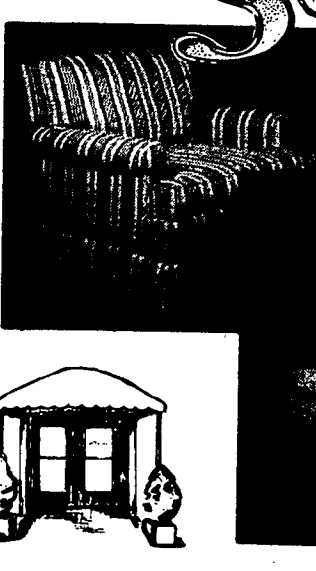

Among the persons interviewed during the program are Aaron Henry, president of the Mississippi NAACP, and author/journalist David Halberstam, formerly of Mississippi.

Power company combines Bay-Pass Christian areas

Bernard Jacob has been named Mississippi Power Company's Bay St. Louis/Pass Christian area supervisor, according to Paul DeNicola, the utility's Coastal Division director.

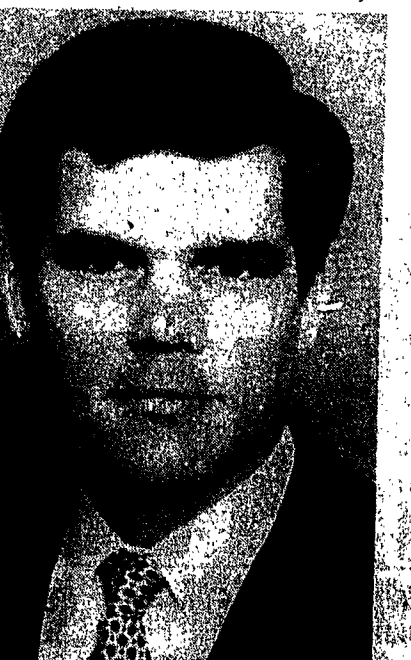

Jacob, an economic development representative for the utility, joined Mississippi Power Company in 1982 as an external affairs representative.

"We're confident Jacob will be effective in overseeing the operations of this area," DeNicola said.

"He will be responsible for the company's business working with our customers to give them reliable, electric service."

Jacob graduated from Mississippi State University in 1976 with a bachelor of science degree in finance.

He is a member of the Gulfport Kiwanis Club, a Mississippi Industrial Development Council, the Southern Industrial Development Council, and the Mississippi Association of Chamber of Commerce Executives. Jacob has one daughter, Sandra, 12, and two sons, 10, 8, and Megan, 9.

County asks supervisors for county funding hike

By ELLIS CUEVAS

The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce officers in an informal meeting with the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, requested increased support for the coming fiscal year.

In the current county budget, the chamber sought $25,000, and were budgeted $20,000 by the supervisors, and citing their efforts to improve the business climate, have asked for an increase to $33,000 for the coming fiscal year.

A task force of directors and chamber members was selected by Pat Harvill, chamber president, to make presentations to the county's governing body.

The chamber also receives $1,200 a year from the cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland in addition to membership dues.

A.A. (Dolph) Kellar, supervisor president, told the chamber leaders of the 10 per cent cap the county faces with the current reappraisal now underway.

Kellar said, "We will do what we can, what we will have to do is take that 10 per cent and divide it, as all agencies are seeking increases."

Hilda Bourg, who was hired by the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce and Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission to prepare the necessary study for an application for Key Community designation, told the supervisors how the plan had been prepared in late 1983 and nothing has been done.

Bourg said she was given only two weeks to gather the information and it was typed and prepared by South Mississippi Planning and Development District for the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission, and it remains in boxes at the commission office.

She stated she hated to cross the bridge to Harrison County and see that county designated as a Key Community stating, "If the chamber had been given the job, Hancock would have already been a Key Community."

Industries seeking locations lean towards communities with Key Community designation.

John A. Scafide, chamber director, mentioned how the chamber could help the supervisors since it has turned to a task force format.

"We have a list of serious problems we didn't have 20 years ago, such as wastewater, building codes, zoning, and the beach. We believe the chamber can be of help to you in solving these problems."

"We could serve as a buffer. We have a tremendous wealth of knowledge (among members) which could be used to help secure solutions to some of the problems with a task force without political pressure," Scafide added, saying, "All you have to do is ask."

Dick Thomas, a member of the Harrison-Hancock Job Training Partnership Act Council, and who is the group's president-elect said, "As most of you know I have been involved with the industrial development part of the chamber for a very long time."

"We need to promote industrial park sites as much as possible...we have enough welders, we don't need welders. The Job Training Partnership Act Council can help in training local workers for local industry," Thomas allowed.

David Treutel talked about how tourism does not play the role it did years ago, but still has an effect on our area in promoting it as a bedroom community. He also told about the chamber's efforts in promoting the Amtrak train and promoting the World's Fair in New Orleans.

Stu Nelson, chamber director and of the Naval Oceanographic Office, told that a recent survey showed more of its employees live in Hancock County than elsewhere in the region. He also said the Naval installation was the largest employer of the some 18 agencies at NSTL.

Creation of county court urged by Bay attorney

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

Bay St. Louis attorney Nicholas M. Haas intends to take advantage of a trip to Pearl River County next Monday on other business to pursue the possibility of establishing a joint county court for Hancock and Pearl River Counties.

Noting that the law allows two counties to combine to establish a county court, Haas suggested Monday that Hancock County might join with Pearl River County.

"I think the board is acutely aware of crowded conditions in circuit court," Haas told the board of supervisors.

"I think we need a county court," which would serve as an intermediate court between Justice Court and Circuit Court.

Haas said Pearl River County is comparable in size to Hancock, and probably is also suffering from crowded dockets.

"We could probably work out arrangements with them so it wouldn't be a tremendous financial burden to either county."

When it was pointed out that Hancock and Pearl River are in separate circuit districts, Haas said the law was mute on that question.

Board Attorney Walter Gex suggested that representatives of the Hancock County Bar Association first contact the senior circuit court judge, J. Ruble Griffin, for his approval, and then broach the proposition to Pearl River County through its bar association.

"I think a county court might alleviate the Circuit Court's crowded docket," Haas commented.

"I also implore you to consider a new courthouse instead of a tack-on," Haas told the supervisors.

Haas said Wednesday he had discussed the county court idea with Griffin and that Griffin was favorable to exploring the possibility.

"I intend to talk to some of the lawyers in Pearl River County Monday," Haas said.

"And hopefully their senior judge, Rip Pritchard, will also be there."

department apparently occurred when several used highway patrol vehicles purchased by the city were not reconditioned before use. Instead, the police department put them on the road almost immediately.

The street department and the police department were the only significant areas where the budgets had to be amended, the city clerk said. "Most departments didn't swing $10,000 either way," he told the council.

The entire budget changed by about 10 percent, Favre added.

The council, except for absent

member James Thrifley, voted to approve the amended budget, but not before Sheldon Seuzeneau requested a monthly report on each department budget from the city clerk.

The reports are expected to keep future cost overruns from occurring without the knowledge of the council.

In other business, the council opened bids on sewer repair and took them under advisement until Tuesday's meeting, discussed what to do about a burned out house on Main Street with one of the house owners, and approved the amended budget for the city utility system.

BAY FM.

WXGR's AM station, known as the 'Gulf Coast Country Giant,' focuses on country music.

Programming for a new FM station, Hatchett said, would be determined following a community survey to see what the majority of community members want.

"We hope, of course, to be able to locate an FM facility here."

"There are already some FM stations across the bridge in Harrison County. This would be a first for Hancock County."

Hatchett said a full-time radio station is needed, not just to serve the community from an entertainment vein, but also for news and emergency information.

"Our primary purpose is to be able to alert the community in case of an emergency."

"For entertainment, we would let the community decide what format we would have."

Shirley said the allocation of new channels will be made around the end of the year.

After the allocations are made, Hat-chett said, WXGR would have to conduct engineering studies, acquire land for construction of a tower and acquire the necessary production equipment.

"It is conceivable some of the new frequencies will be on the air as early as January or February of next year."

"That doesn't necessarily mean we would," he added.

"It can be a long or a short process, depending on the engineering and construction."

The FCC will accept 'reply comments providing information concerning which of the conflicting communities should be selected' until Aug. 22.

"Any community support that would be forthcoming can only help," Hatchett said.

"I do believe we're in desperate need of a full-time radio station here in Hancock County."

Interested persons may send their comments to Federal Communications Commission, 1919 M Street N.W., Washington, D.C. 20554.

An original and four copies should be submitted, and the comments should refer to the Bay St. Louis proposal as 'City 338, Proposal No. 233A.'

Hancock school offices to move out to Stennis

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT
Hancock County School District offices will move to the administration building at Stennis International Airport as soon as remodeling work is completed, Superintendent Terrell Randolph said Wednesday.

Monday the board of supervisors authorized use of the building at Stennis by the school district.

Randolph said he had requested the offices be moved to some other location than the Russell Building on Court Street in Bay St. Louis, which also houses the Youth Court offices, because of lack of space.

The school district's administration offices have been housed in the Russell Building since about 1977.

The remodeling work at Stennis, Randolph said, consists of putting up partitions to provide additional offices.

The school district's present quarters include six offices, one of them quite small, Randolph said.

With the move, the district will gain four more offices plus a storage room for files.

Remodeling work will also include partitioning off an area for a board room.

"The major benefit is that the administration offices will be closer to the Hancock North Central complex, and not any farther from the district's other schools."

"It will be better for all our personnel because it's much more difficult for maintenance personnel and other personnel to come all the way into town because of the distance and traffic and parking problems."

"My office will be more accessible to our school district's public, students and personnel."

He said the offices will also be more accessible to vendors generally, because it will be located only 1.2 miles off I-10.

There will also, he noted, be some cost savings resulting from the move.

Randolph said his offices will receive mail delivery at Stennis, and banking business will be conducted at Diamondhead.

The move will take place, he said, as soon as the partitioning work is completed.

Waveland P & Z accepts one zone change, denies another

By DENA BISNETTE

The Waveland Planning and Zoning Board discussed two requests for changes from R1 to R3 zonings Tuesday, voting to recommend one to the city council and to take the other under advisement.

The board agreed to recommend a change from R-1, which allows single-family dwellings only, to R-3, which allows multi-family dwellings, for property owned by Dot Bloom.

Mrs. Bloom said she requested the change for her property, which consists of five acres adjacent to Century Park Apartments, because it is bordered on two sides by R-3 property and she is interested in selling it.

The other request came from Derek Breerwood, who owns property on the left side of Nicholson Avenue south of Adrian Court. Breerwood had previously requested a change from R-1 to R-3 but the board had denied the request.

Breerwood presented the board with plans showing the location of proposed apartment units and a pond he proposes to build in the center of the area.

Since Breerwood's plans have changed since he made his original request and now include subdividing the property, the board members decided to take the matter under advisement until Breerwood can provide more information on how the property will be subdivided.

If Breerwood can provide the information before the board's next regular meeting Aug. 28, a special meeting may be called to discuss his request.

Park commission reports McLeod improvements

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

The Hancock County Park Commission has requested a $17,000 increase for its 1984-85 budget.

In a document presented Monday to the board of supervisors, Hilda L. Bourg, secretary-treasurer for the commission, noted that during the past year Pearl River Basin Development District granted $58,480 to McLeod Water Park for construction of 25 pull-through campsites and for wooden playground equipment.

Each campsite, she noted, is complete with water, electricity, concrete benches and table, trash receptacle and barbecue grill.

The $17,000, Bourg said, is for additional personnel and maintenance required to maintain those improvements.

In its 1984-85 budget, the commission estimates gate receipts at McLeod at $25,000, up $5,000 from 1983-84 receipts.

The park commission's report on its expansion program at McLeod shows the following improvements:

—Concrete picnic tables/benches—increased from 20 to 40;

—Barbecue grills—increased from 20 to 45; and

—Trash receptacles—increased from 13 to 38.

The water park also features a pavilion, a boat dock, two fishing piers, a shelter and two complete bath houses.

In addition to the new playground equipment, McLeod has two basketball goals, volleyball net poles, a softball field with lights and bleachers, and a nature trail.

The report indicates the park commission spent $9,183 for the expansion program.

It also credits the supervisors with clearing campsites and roads, leveling the campsites, devising a system to drain surface and surplus water and hauling sand for a base for the playground equipment.

Bourg said a 'Fun Day' will be held this fall at McLeod with all Hancock County residents invited.

1985 FARM BILL

"Farmweek" presents an interview with Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block at 7:30 p.m., Monday, Aug. 6 on Mississippi Educational Television.

Block discusses the 1985 Farm Bill during the interview, which was taped during a recent visit to Starkville.

Weather forecasts, farm news, market analysis, advice for farmers and a calendar of upcoming agricultural events are included in each weekly edition of "Farmweek," a co-production of Mississippi ETV and the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

Supervisors request vandalism crackdown

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

Removing or vandalizing stop signs is 'destroying government property,' according to Hancock County Sheriff's Department Investigator Delbert Seay.

It is, Seay said, a misdemeanor offense which could result in a fine up to $500.

Monday the Hancock County Board of Supervisors adopted a resolution asking law enforcement officials to give 'special attention' to the destruction of stop signs and other county property.

On July 25 an accident at the intersection of DeSoto and Jasper Streets in BaySide Park resulted in injuries requiring hospital treatment for two persons.

Later that same afternoon county crews erected stop signs at the intersection, but Beat One employee J.V. Ladner said it is a constant job to keep signs up, and that 25 signs cost about $500 to $600 dollars.

Supervisor Bert Courge, who has brought up the problem before in board meetings, said 50 signs were posted in BaySide six months ago.

Of those, he said, only four were still standing when another 200 signs were recently erected throughout Hancock County.

Supervisors Sam Perniciaro, James Travira and Board President A.A. Kellar said they had experienced the same difficulties in their beats.

And Kellar noted that vandalism of other county equipment is also a continual and increasing problem.

Hancock amputee adds to trophy collection

By NAN PATTON EHRLBRIGHT
Ernie Ainsworth of Bay St. Louis has two new golf trophies to display.

First he brought home the first place trophy from the Southern U.S. Regional competition sponsored by the Amputees' Golf Association June 12-17 in Mobile, Ala.

About 80 amateur golfers participated in that event, he said.

A few weeks later he was named second flight champion at a tournament sponsored by the Pass Christian Isles Golf Club.

Ainsworth said he has been playing golf for only "a few years," but he has always been an athlete.

He played softball and basketball, and he was a football player in 1964 when he stepped out of his car one day and was hit by an 18-wheeler.

Gangrene developed, he said, and after four operations his leg was amputated above the knee.

"When I first lost my leg I got depressed," he said.

"Because I was a football player it was very serious to me."

"Then I accepted it and decided I would not be defeated by it."

A native of Laurel, Ainsworth is owner of Ernie's Style Shop on US-90 in Waveland.

Two years ago he won second place in a national competition of the Amputees' Golf Association at Tanglewood golf course in Winston-Salem, N.C.

"That was a beautiful course," he said, "but a tough one."

This year's national competition will be held this month near Philadelphia, Pa.

Ainsworth estimates 200 or more golfers will participate in the national competition.

Asked if he would participate in the Pennsylvania tournament, he said, "I plan to go. I want to go."

"Say I will go."

That last statement affirms Ainsworth's philosophical attitude toward his 1964 accident.

"Whatever level in life you're at, there's always something you can do if you set your mind to it."

"You can be competitive."

"There's no such thing as being negative!"

QUARTER HORSE SHOW—Quarter Horse enthusiast Kelly Ladner, 13, will be competing at the 13th annual American Junior Quarter Horse Association World Championship Show and Convention in Tulsa, Okla., Aug. 4-11. ### BENEFICIAL BATS

Although bats are among the most relentlessly persecuted animals on Earth, Europeans recognize their beneficial value to man as pollinators of fruit and nut trees, dispersers of seeds and predators of pesky insects, says 'International Wildlife' magazine. Bats are legally protected in all European countries as well as in Russia. In fact, thousands of bat "houses" have been placed in national forests throughout Europe, especially in England.

How many useless remedies are taken for this condition is anyone's guess. The pain in this type of headache usually starts at the base of the head, by the neck, and spreads to the sides and top of the head. People subject to this condition have a developing structural problem in the spine. Usually, the headache frequency and intensity increases as the spine undergoes further adverse changes! Working in static postures, such as long hours at a desk or typing, serve to aggravate this problem. Competent Chiropractic care will clear up the majority of these problems.

department apparently occurred when several used highway patrol vehicles purchased by the city were not reconditioned before use. Instead, the police department put them on the road almost immediately.

The street department and the police department were the only significant areas where the budgets had to be amended, the city clerk said. "Most departments didn't swing $10,000 either way," he told the council.

The entire budget changed by about 10 percent, Favre added.

The council, except for absent

member James Thrifley, voted to approve the amended budget, but not before Sheldon Seuzeneau requested a monthly report on each department budget from the city clerk.

The reports are expected to keep future cost overruns from occurring without the knowledge of the council.

In other business, the council opened bids on sewer repair and took them under advisement until Tuesday's meeting, discussed what to do about a burned out house on Main Street with one of the house owners, and approved the amended budget for the city utility system.

BAY FM.....

WXGR's AM station, known as the 'Gulf Coast Country Giant,' focuses on country music.

Programming for a new FM station, Hatchett said, would be determined following a community survey to see what the majority of community members want.

"We hope, of course, to be able to locate an FM facility here."

"There are already some FM stations across the bridge in Harrison County. This would be a first for Hancock County."

Hatchett said a full-time radio station is needed, not just to serve the community on an entertainment vein, but also for news and emergency information.

"Our primary purpose is to be able to alert the community in case of an emergency."

"For entertainment, we would let the community decide what format we would have."

Shirley said the allocation of new channels will be made around the end of the year.

After the allocations are made, Hat-

Hancock school offices to move out to Stennis

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT
Hancock County School District offices will move to the administration building at Stennis International Airport as soon as remodeling work is completed, Superintendent Terrell Randolph said Wednesday.

Monday the board of supervisors authorized use of the building at Stennis by the school district.

Randolph said he had requested the offices be moved to some other location than the Russell Building on Court Street in Bay St. Louis, which also houses the Youth Court offices, because of lack of space.

The school district's administration offices have been housed in the Russell Building since about 1977.

The remodeling work at Stennis, Randolph said, consists of putting up partitions to provide additional offices.

The school district's present quarters include six offices, one of them quite small, Randolph said.

With the move, the district will gain four more offices plus a storage room for files.

Remodeling work will also include partitioning off an area for a board room.

"The major benefit is that the administration offices will be closer to the Hancock North Central complex, and not any farther from the district's other schools."

"It will be better for all our personnel because it's much more difficult for maintenance personnel and other personnel to come all the way into town because of the distance and traffic and parking problems."

"My office will be more accessible to our school district's public, students and personnel."

He said the offices will also be more accessible to vendors generally, because it will be located only 1.2 miles off I-10.

There will also, he noted, be some cost savings resulting from the move.

Randolph said his offices will receive mail delivery at Stennis, and banking business will be conducted at Diamondhead.

The move will take place, he said, as soon as the partitioning work is completed.

Waveland P & Z accepts one zone change, denies another

By DENA BISNETTE

The Waveland Planning and Zoning Board discussed two requests for changes from R-1 to R-3 zonings Tuesday, voting to recommend one to the city council and to take the other under advisement.

The board agreed to recommend a change from R-1, which allows single-family dwellings only, to R-3, which allows multi-family dwellings, for property owned by Dot Bloom.

Mrs. Bloom said she requested the change for her property, which consists of five acres adjacent to Century Park Apartments, because it is bordered on two sides by R-3 property and she is interested in selling it.

The other request came from Derek Breerwood, who owns property on the left side of Nicholson Avenue south of Adrian Court. Breerwood had previously requested a change from R-1 to R-3 but the board had denied the request.

Breerwood presented the board with plans showing the location of proposed apartment units and a pond he proposes to build in the center of the area.

Since Breerwood's plans have changed since he made his original request and now include subdividing the property, the board members decided to take the matter under advisement until Breerwood can provide more information on how the property will be subdivided.

If Breerwood can provide the information before the board's next regular meeting Aug. 28, a special meeting may be called to discuss his request.

Park commission reports McLeod improvements

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

The Hancock County Park Commission has requested a $17,000 increase for its 1984-85 budget.

In a document presented Monday to the board of supervisors, Hilda L. Bourg, secretary-treasurer for the commission, noted that during the past year Pearl River Basin Development District granted $58,480 to McLeod Water Park for construction of 25 pull-through campsites and for wooden playground equipment.

Each campsite, she noted, is complete with water, electricity, concrete benches and table, trash receptacle and barbecue grill.

The $17,000, Bourg said, is for additional personnel and maintenance required to maintain those improvements.

In its 1984-85 budget, the commission estimates gate receipts at McLeod at $25,000, up $5,000 from 1983-84 receipts.

The park commission's report on its expansion program at McLeod shows the following improvements:

—Concrete picnic tables/benches—increased from 20 to 40;

—Barbecue grills—increased from 20 to 45; and

—Trash receptacles—increased from 13 to 38.

The water park also features a pavilion, a boat dock, two fishing piers, a shelter and two complete bath houses.

In addition to the new playground equipment, McLeod has two basketball goals, volleyball net poles, a softball field with lights and bleachers, and a nature trail.

The report indicates the park commission spent $9,183 for the expansion program.

It also credits the supervisors with clearing campsites and roads, leveling the campsites, devising a system to drain surface and surplus water and hauling sand for a base for the playground equipment.

Bourg said a 'Fun Day' will be held this fall at McLeod with all Hancock County residents invited.

The pain in this type of headache usually starts at the base of the head, by the neck, and spreads to the sides and top of the head. People subject to this condition have a developing structural problem in the spine. Usually, the headache frequency and intensity increases as the spine undergoes further adverse changes. Working in static postures, such as long hours at a desk or typing, serve to aggravate this problem. Competent Chiropractic care will clear up the majority of these problems.

Football camp proceeds to benefit Bay Catholic Schools Booster Club

By EDGAR PEREZ

Coach J. E. Loiacano of Bay St. Louis is sponsoring a five-day summer football camp for youngsters nine through 14 years of age with proceeds dedicated to the Bay Catholic Schools Booster Club.

The program is scheduled to open at 8:30 a.m. Monday at the St. Stanislaus High School practice field on Booker Street.

Camp sessions will be conducted each day Monday through Friday from 8:30 to 11 a.m.

Pre-registration is being conducted at Loiacano's Health Club at Main and St. Francis Streets, the coach said, with a final registration to be conducted at the field beginning at 8 a.m. Monday.

Registration fee is $30 per participant and will include tee shirt and refreshments during the five days.

Campers will be divided into three age groups—9 & 10, 11 & 12, and 13 & 14—and must furnish their own shoes—either tennis, turf or cleats—shorts, and shirts.

Special events on the schedule include punt, pass, kick, 40- and 100-yard dash competitions, Loiacano noted. He said the training will be non-contact.

"The primary objective of this first annual Bay St. Louis Football Camp will be to teach the young campers the basic fundamentals of running, catching, speed and agility," Loiacano stated.

"These fundamentals will be featured each day by the adult supervisors at the camp," the coach emphasized.

"Younger campers and those coming out for football for the first time this year will learn the things they need to know to become good football players," Loiacano said.

"We're also going to teach these kids how to get in shape—our conditioning program will include calisthenics, flexibility exercises and football agility drills," he continued.

"We will be demonstrating both offensive and defensive techniques for linemen, receivers and running backs," the coach added.

Loiacano, owner-operator of Loiacano's Health Club for the past five years, was Mississippi State University football strength coach for three years and Gulfport High School head football coach for four years.

He was head football coach for Bay St. Louis High School for some five years.

His college football playing career included action in the 1963 Liberty Bowl and Blue-Grey games with MSU where he was named best linebacker in the Southeastern Conference.

As a sophomore at Pearl River Junior College, Loiacano was selected to the national Junior College All-American Team and was named to the all-state team as a PRJC freshman.

Bay Area Youth Soccer summer camp underway

This week Bay Area Youth Soccer, Inc. is sponsoring its second annual soccer camp at St. Augustine Seminary field.

Approximately 40 boys and girls ranging in age from eight to 15 are attending.

The instructors, Roy Ruffel and Ted Dale, are player-coaches from London, England.

They both are PE teachers, both coach boys clubs in London, both play semi-pro soccer and have 30 years experience each, starting to play at the age of three.

"All our youth are benefiting greatly from the instruction of these experience soccer people," said Tom Dembocki, Bays spokesman.

"This is the type of activity that Bays hopes to continue to bring to the Bay-Waveland area for all the youth. The more youth that participate in these programs, the better the soccer program in the community," he added.

The next meeting of the Bays' board of directors is scheduled for Tuesday, Aug. 14 at 7:30 p.m. at Virginia Hall, Christ Episcopal Church.

All coaches and other interested adults are urged to attend a coaches' seminar by Russell and Dale at 7 p.m. Thursday at St. Augustine Seminary Field, said Paul Montjoy, Bays president.

This will be the organizing meeting for the season, with dates to be discussed and decided upon.

Pass, SSC coaches expect challenging season openers

By DENA BISNETTE

Football coaches at Pass Christian and St. Stanislaus say they are both expecting tough season openers Sept. 7.

"We have several grudge matches on our schedule," said St. Stanislaus Head Coach Vernon Powell, "and we're starting our season with one against Hancock North Central, our county rival. The outcome of that game will probably be based on which team makes the least errors."

"We played a lot of young players the first year (1982) I was head coach, then the team matured last year but we lost a lot of games on mental mistakes. This year we hope to eliminate those mistakes, but it may take a game or two," he explained.

He said he expects injuries to play a big role in the first game, and said heat and humidity may also become a factor. "It depends on how conditioned the players are, but in early games heat and humidity sometime makes quite a difference, particularly in the last quarter," the coach explained.

Strategy for the first game will probably include a multiple offense backed by a strong defense, Powell hopes to use both to force errors by Hancock North Central.

SSC has 19 starters, mostly on offense, returning this season, and Powell is expecting a better season than last year when SSC had a 4-6 record.

"In five of the six games we lost, it was by less than eight points," Powell said. "In the other game, which was against St. Paul's out of Mobile, we were just outclassed."

Powell, who believes in working on one game at a time, will be concentrating on the Sept. 7 game when the SSC players report to practice next Friday and limited his comments on other games to the schedule in general instead of discussing specific opponents.

"We have basically the same schedule as last year, and almost every school we play could be considered a rival. It's going to be very competitive," he said.

The schedule does not include any district games. SSC will play as an independent school in football this year, although its other sports programs will participate in district competition.

"We felt the team wasn't ready for district play this year," Powell said, explaining that the school may choose to compete on the district level during the 1985 season.

Alton Wright, who was named head coach at Pass Christian just two weeks ago, faces two problems in his team's season opener.

Wright, who had been coaching in Gulfport, was in a different football conference from his new team, which is part of the Deep South Athletic Conference. He said one problem he faces in preparing for the 1984 season is an unfamiliarity with some of Pass Christian's opponents.

"It's going to be tough, not having spring training with these boys and knowing some of our opponents only from the films of last year's games," the coach explained.

He said he hopes to have a multiple offense, but will mostly work on the team's passing game and basic running plays for the season's early games.

Wright has a starting quarterback and most of the team's offensive line from last year, but most of his offensive players will also have to play defense.

"We expect to have about 35 players out this year, but that won't give us much depth. I expect a small bench to be a major problem, especially when we play bigger schools," he said.

A bigger school, d'Iberville, is Wright's second big problem with the season opener. "This game is going to be a tough start," he commented.

d'Iberville, under the new five A classification system devised by state high-school athletic officials last year, is in a higher class than Pass Christian, Wright explained.

The classification system matches schools according to their population, but still allows competition against bigger or smaller schools. Pass Christian is a AAA school and Wright said d'Iberville is a AAAA school, which gives it more players to choose from during try-outs and a deeper bench in case of injury to key players.

"I'm glad this game isn't later in the season," Wright said. "I'd rather play teams like d'Iberville early when they may not be quite ready."

Another bright spot about the season opener for Wright is that d'Iberville is not one of Pass Christian's six conference games. The first conference game will be Sept. 14 against Bay High.

Wright said his team starts practicing next week.

Physicals for the members of the Pass Christian football team will be conducted at 6:30 p.m. August 7 at the Gulfport High School Field House, according to Pass Christian Coach Alton Wright.

Bus transportation will be provided from Pass Christian High School to Gulfport. Players should meet at the school at 5:45.

Ammo Plant bow-hunting for deer to be allowed

Mississippi Army Ammunition Plant is conducting a bow and arrow deer hunt at the plant throughout the state's deer-hunting season Oct. 6 through Jan. 18 for licensed hunters.

Season permits costing $25 will be sold to 650 applicants.

Applications, which must be received before Aug. 31, can be obtained by sending a request, along with a legal-sized, self-addressed stamped envelope to: Commander, Mississippi Army Ammunition Plant, Attn.: Security Headquarters, Bldg. 58301, B.O. Box 4000, Picayune, Miss. 39466.

Completed applications should be returned to the same address with a certified check or money order payable to the Treasurer of the United States.

All applicants must provide a "Certified Local Police Records Check" from an official law enforcement agency.

Applications will be returned to the sender, with notice of approval or denial.

Fees will be returned to persons whose applications are denied.

If there are more than 650 applicants, a public drawing will be made prior to issuance of any permit.

All approved applicants must attend a hunter briefing meeting, to be held at the plant, to validate their permits.

Four meetings are scheduled: Sept. 18, 20, 24, and 26, all beginning at 7 p.m.

Official rules and regulations will be issued at the meeting, followed by a question and answer period.

The purpose of the deer harvest is to control the population level.

According to the Mississippi Department of Wildlife Conservation, a study of the white-tailed deer herd at Mississippi Army Ammunition Plant revealed the area to be severely overpopulated.

Supervisors object to bow hunt season

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

At the urging of Board President A.A. Kellar, the Hancock County supervisors voted unanimously Monday to go on record again in opposition to a hunting season at the Mississippi Army Ammunition Plant.

The plant has announced it will conduct a bow-and-arrow deer hunt during the regular deer-hunting season Oct. 6 through Jan. 18.

The purpose of the deer harvest is to control the population level.

But Kellar said the deer census was taken last year when waters had been high for six months.

"That was the only place the deer had to go," he said.

In early July the supervisors adopted a resolution opposing the hunting season, noting that Mississippi's Congressional delegation and NASA officials had promised at the time NASA first established its facility in Hancock County that the area would be permanently maintained as a game preserve.

Kellar said about a month ago he met with officials from Mason Chamberlain, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and the Game and Fish Commission and asked them to take another deer count.

"Since NASA's come to we have more game in the surrounding area than we've ever had before—and it's a result of no hunting at NASA," Kellar said.

"They promised that area would never be opened to hunting."

"I don't like to see a lot of Johnny-come-latties come in and change the rules."

A Mason-Chamberlain official said the hunting program was the result of a cooperative agreement among the U.S. Army, the State Department and Wildlife Conservation and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

"We felt this was the best way to solve the severe overpopulation problem," he said.

Special permits for the bow hunt will be sold to licensed hunters, who must also provide evidence from an official law enforcement agency that they do not have criminal records.

Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson said Wednesday that he has never been contacted about this requirement.

But Captain Aaron Cobb, executive officer for the Army Ammunition Plant, said interested applicants should be able to present a criminal law enforcement agency check from the sheriff's department or the state police.

"We're not offering a specific permit," he said.

THE ART OF BODY-BUILDING will be demonstrated at "The People's Fair" Saturday at the Rice Pavilion in Gulfport by Charles Hawkins of Waveland, "Mr. Teenage Gulf Coast." Hawkins, 19, earned four trophies at the fourth annual Mr. and Ms. Gulf Coast Body-Building Championships in Biloxi, including 1984 overall winner, junior division; first place, teen division; first place, junior heavyweight division; and third place, 1984 open division. He also placed fourth in Mr. Tri-State's junior division in Baton Rouge, La., and will compete in the Mr. Teen American national contest to be held in September. "The People's Fair," a benefit for the crisis-stricken of Hancock and Harrison Counties sponsored by Gulf Coast Community Action Agency, will also feature seafood, games and entertainment. ## FISHIN' TIPS

from Tom Mann

QUESTIONS FROM THE MAIL BAG

HEY TOM! What's a quick way to tell a three-pound channel catfish from a three-pound flathead catfish? Old Wisker

HELLO WISKERS! Easy. Look at the tail. On the channel it is forked but on the flathead it is not, just straight.

DEAR MR. MANN! How can I keep my crawdads lively? They just up and die on me about midday. Silky

HELLO ST! Betcha you are keeping them in water. Don't keep them in wet grass or moss in a styrofoam container and they'll keep lively for days.

DEAR TOM! I know you do all kinds of fishing and I read where the best way to fluff up an old fly is to hold it in front of a steaming kettle spout. Won't this soak it with moisture instead of fluffing it? Doubting Tom

HELLO TOM! Right you are, my friend. Much better to wet an old fly then hold it in front of a hair blower to fluff it.

TOM MANN! What do you do when the water is so clear and the fish follow, but won't take your lure? Gin Sippin'

HELLO GIN! Use the lightest line you can find even down to a two-pound test, and small lures in the 1/8 ounce class. Lures that resemble minnows or weighted spinners, retrieved at a fairly fast pace are your best bet. As a last resort, try live minnows still using the light line.

Orleans museum to show Indian art

"The circle of the world was a great hoop with the two roads crossing where I stood, the black one and the red. And all around the hoop more peoples than I could count were sitting together in a sacred manner."

—Eagle Voice (Lakota holy man)

The circle, considered the perfect form by the Plains Indians, has no beginning or end. The circle has been chosen as the central theme for the special exhibition, Circles of the World: Traditional Art of the Plains Indians, on view at the New Orleans Museum of Art from Aug. 11 through Nov. 18.

The exhibition was organized by the Denver Art Museum and is made possible by grants from the American Express Foundation, the National Endowment for the Humanities, and the National Endowment for the Arts.

By tracing the four circles that symbolized the lives of Native Americans—the family, the tribe, humanity, and the unknown—the exhibition guides the viewer through an important part of our nation's heritage. Circles of the World includes over 150 examples of a wide variety of objects produced by American Plains Indians from the 18th to the early 20th century. The exhibition opens new perspective of the vast range of beautiful objects produced by the American Plains Indians and the cultural life and system of beliefs which stimulated them. It is the first major exhibition organized by an art museum to deal with this fascinating field of native arts and the culture which produced it.

The Plains people drew upon the circle form in many ways. They lived in conical homes with circular bases which they arranged into camps in a ring formation. Circles also appear in the design of ritual properties like the magic hoops carried in major religious ceremonies. On a secular level, the shape occurs in game equipment and household objects like food bowls.

However, the concept of the circle as a perfect shape was most pervasive on the intellectual level, where the universe was seen as a series of concentric horizons, beginning with the home and extending to the infinite.

These circles corresponded to the individual's growing perceptions as he progressed from infancy to old age. Life began with the circle of the family and moved to the circle of the tribe, which encompassed the individual within the larger camp circle of tipis like his own.

The tribal circle was and still is an important entity to the Plains Indians. Their metaphors of the last century frequently equate the tribal group with the notion of circularity: "the sacred hoop of the tribe" or "the circle of council fires." Remarks recorded in the 19th century emphasize the unity and strength of these circles and the necessity of maintaining them unbroken.

A third, larger circle included all humanity, encompassing the realm of both friends and enemies from the "outside" world. Finally, the greatest of all circles comprised the unknowable world, "wakan," containing beings and forces which man could neither see nor control. Significantly, the Plains people made their paramount ritual approach to these forces in the circular Sun Dance lodge each midsummer.

The Plains people were surrounded by things they had made to serve a practical, social, or religious goal and whose effectiveness was often dependent on the quality of their workmanship and the beauty of their design and decoration.

Today, we have learned to look on these native artifacts as art. Although their products lie outside the European tradition, the Plains Indians worked within well-established canons of taste.

They regarded function, design, and decoration as inseparable components of any object they made. Tribal aesthetic values governed matters of style, the appropriateness of an object to its specific use, and the harmonious juxtaposition of objects used together.

The Plains tribes consciously created works of art to meet their cultural needs. From their point of view there could be no dichotomy between "functional" and "fine" art, for artistic excellence was an integral part of function.

di Benedetto embarks on Mid-East journey

Anna Maria di Benedetto, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George di Benedetto of Bay St. Louis, left home on July 27 on an all-expense-paid trip to several Middle East countries for one month.

The 1984 graduate from the University of Mississippi is one of five winners in a research paper competition sponsored nationwide by the Arab Women's Council Research and Education Fund, Inc.

In the paper, entitled "The Arab-Israeli Conflict: A Solution," she explored the roots of the controversy and included interviews with Arab and Israeli students on three American college campuses.

Counties she will visit on the trip include Jordan, Syria, Israel (the West Bank), and Tunisia. Before leaving Washington the five winners were entertained at a reception in their honor at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Akram Barakat.

Dr. Barakat is director of the Jordan Information Bureau in Washington, and Mrs. Barakat is active in the Arab Women's Council.

Other guests invited to the reception were Trent Lott, congressional representative from Mississippi; Miss Mary Jo Jacobi, presidential assistant and a former resident of Bay St. Louis; members of the press; and representatives from the National Association for Equal Opportunity in Higher Education.

Upon her return from the Middle East, Miss di Benedetto will leave shortly for France, where she will take up a teaching assignment awarded her by the Ministry of Education.

She will teach English for the 1984-85 season at a boarding school and will also take courses at the University of Bordeaux.

College selection committee to seek Hayden's successor

A Presidential Search Committee at Gulf Coast Junior College is asking for written suggestions regarding the selection of a successor to Dr. J.J. Hayden Jr.

Committee chairwoman Eula Switzer said input from the public "will be of value in helping to establish criteria for hiring the person who will head the second largest junior college in Mississippi."

Mrs. Switzer, who also chairs the GCJC Board of Trustees, said Hayden will retire on June 30, 1986. He has been with the college for 35 years, 33 as president.

"Picking someone to replace an administrator of Hayden's proven ability and experience won't be easy," Mrs. Switzer said. "And, while the final decision rests with the board, we want and need help from the private sector."

Written comments from individuals and groups will be received by the committee until Sept. 30. From Oct. 1 through Dec. 31, the suggestions will be reviewed and a selection criteria developed, Mrs. Switzer said.

She said "The advertising for and solicitation of applicants will last for three months, beginning on Jan. 1, 1985. The screening process will start on April 1 and will narrow the field down to three or more candidates. By June 30 or as soon as practical, the selection will be finalized," she added.

Written comments should be sent to Mrs. Switzer at Gulf Coast Junior College, P.O. Box 27, Perkinston 39573, or to her office at 120 Pass Rd., Biloxi 39531.

Fraschillo named USM band director

Ton Fraschillo of Meridian was appointed director of bands at University of Southern Mississippi effective July 1.

According to Ronald McCreery, Music School director, Fraschillo presently is completing requirements for a doctor of musical arts degree at the University of South Carolina.

Fraschillo formerly was director of bands and supervisor of instrumental music at Meridian High School and has won numerous awards for his work at schools and universities throughout the southeast.

He was chosen a STAR Teacher in the state by the Mississippi Economic Council in 1975 and has been honored by the American School Band Directors Association, the National Band Association and the Southeastern United States Band Clinic.

Fraschillo has served as band director at Maddox Junior High School in Laurel, at Forrest County Agricultural High School and at Lake Charles and LaGrange High Schools in Lake Charles, La. He also was a percussion instructor at McNeese State University.

The Meridian High School Band under his direction has performed at USM's Southern Instrumental Conductors' Conference, at the Music Educators' National Conference-Southern Division and the American Association of School Administrators' Convention.

As manager-director of the Mississippi Lions All-State Band for several years, Fraschillo led the group on a 1982 tour of South Africa.

"He comes to USM with wide experience as an adjudicator and clinician in band festivals and conferences in Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, South Carolina and Tennessee," McCreery said.

A native of Clarksdale, Fraschillo received his bachelor of music education and his master of music education degrees from USM.

He is a member of numerous professional and honorary organizations, among them the American School Band Directors' Association, Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, the National Band Association, the Mississippi Bandmasters' Association, Kappa Kappa Psi and the Music Educators' National Conference.

As director of bands Fraschillo will be responsible for administering the total band program including the symphonic band and concert bands, and overseeing the marching band, "The Pride of Mississippi," under the direction of Kelly Love.

In addition he will teach conducting classes and maintain relationships with school music programs throughout the state and nation.

"It is a pleasure to welcome Dr. Fraschillo," McCreery said.

"His presence on the staff will further enhance our ability to carry out our leadership role in music for the State of Mississippi. He is one of the nation's finest young band directors."

USM officials discuss admissions standards

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT
Admission standards on the University of Southern Mississippi's Gulf Coast campuses will become more stringent this fall.

Dr. Joe Holloway, dean of USM Gulf Coast, discussed the standards last week at a press conference at the Gulf Park campus, noting the requirements comply with guidelines set earlier this year by the Board of Trustees of State Institutions of Higher Learning.

All new university applicants born after 1956, he said, must show proof of measles and rubella immunization prior to registering for the fall semester.

Measles is the most serious of the common childhood diseases and, in extreme cases, can cause convulsions, deafness or mental retardation.

The most serious problem with rubella, also called German measles, is its effect on pregnant women.

If contracted during pregnancy, rubella may result in miscarriage or birth defects.

Only one form of proof of immunization will be accepted, Holloway said.

That form may be obtained at USM Gulf Coast campuses and must be completed by a personal physician or by officials from a county health department or Keesler Air Force Base's Immunization Clinic.

Exemptions, Holloway said, will be granted to certain individuals for medical and maternal reasons if they complete a form provided by the Admissions Office.

Beginning this fall, all students must have a score of 15 on the ACT or 720 SAT. Transferring students must have a 15 ACT plus an overall 'C' average in all post-secondary institutions.

Dr. Louis Elias, Assistant Dean for Support Services, said students who have not achieved a 15 ACT must take 24 semester credit hours including six hours of English composition, six hours of laboratory science, three hours of college algebra or above and nine hours of transferable electives, with a 'C' average in these courses as well as in all other attempted work.

Students who have not met these requirements may seek help at the Admissions Office, Elias said.

"Hopefully, no one will be turned away,"

Elias said he felt this new requirement is a good idea.

"It goes hand in hand with Mississippi's goals to improve our standards."

"It's time for our standards to be raised," he said.

Students must also submit all transcripts prior to registration so their eligibility for admission under the new standards can be determined.

Registration is scheduled for Aug. 22 and 23, with late registration through Aug. 30.

Elias said admissions counseling will be available at every USM campus.

"Students may contact, and should contact, the office most convenient to them."

Faulkner gift appraised at $135,000

Although he sometimes referred to himself as a "failed poet," a collection of 48 pages of poetry by Nobel Prize-winning author William Faulkner donated to The University of Mississippi has been appraised at $135,000.

The donation by Douglas C. and Leila Clark Wynn of Greenville in December 1983, was not announced until the appraisal had been completed.

It supplements a collection they donated earlier to the Department of Archives and Special Collections in the John Davis Williams Memorial Library.

"Unquestionably, this treasure trove of Faulkner poems is a discovery of major importance for Faulkner scholarship," said Dr. Thomas Verich, university archivist.

"The gift enhances our strong Faulkner collections and will contribute much in putting together some of the missing pieces of Faulkner's early life."

The new collection includes previously unknown and unpublished Faulkner poems and poem fragments—some typed, others in the Oxford author's distinctive handwriting.

The pages are charred and some of the words missing due to a fire that ravaged the Oxford home of Phil Stone, an early Faulkner friend and mentor.

The largest poetry sequence is a 12-page work entitled "Michael."

Other unpublished poems include such titles as "Scaramouch," "New Orleans," "Dying Gladiator," "London Mail," "Adolescence," "Mary Magdalen," "The Poet Goes Blind," "Wild Geese," "The Gallows" and "Mississippi Hills — My Epitaph."

Some of the poems are romantic, others melancholy.

The collection will be put on public display for the first time during the Faulkner and Yoknapatawpha Conference at the University July 29-Aug. 3, an event that attracts Faulkner scholars from throughout the world.

New York book dealer Glenn Horowitz, who appraised the collection, noted that "there exists no doubt in my mind that this is the most impressive and important Faulkner-manuscript archive, outside of those retained by the Faulkner family, to appear in recent years."

"Most noteworthy is the size of the collection," said Horowitz, "plus the vintage of the poems it contains."

"Of all Faulkner manuscripts, those of the pre-'Marble Faun' period are certainly the most exciting both to collectors and scholars."

Horowitz said the "Michael" poem is the most valuable section of the collection.

"I can find no trace of any poetry manuscript relating to this work having appeared on the market," he said. "The value of these pages is titanic."

The Wynns established their Faulkner collection at Ole Miss in 1980. It is comprised of 240 volumes including first editions, limited signed editions, foreign editions and short stories, as well as speeches and letters by the author.

A copy of "The Marble Faun," a book of poetry, is valued at $15,000. It is signed by Faulkner to Mark Webster, the Oxford postal inspector who fired him as postmaster in 1924, stating: "To Mr. Mark Webster, whose friendship I owe extrication from a very unpleasant situation. William Faulkner."

Verich said there is a strong possibility of a fine press printing of the newly-donated poetry.

The university's Faulkner collection remains one of the strongest in the country, said Verich, along with the University of Texas and University of Virginia collections.

The new donation helps the university toward the requirements of a "coast-sharing grant by the National Endowment for the Humanities," in which a contribution of $900,000 toward the enhancement of Southern studies is matched by $300,000 from NEH.

World Youth Orchestra to perform at UNO

The World Youth Orchestra will be presented in concert Thursday, Aug. 2, at 8 p.m. in the University of New Orleans Lakefront Arena.

The orchestra, composed of some 100 young musicians from 23 countries, will also perform Tuesday and Wednesday, July 31 and August 1, in the amphitheatre at the World's Fair.

Included in the program of the UNO concert, which is open to the public by admission, are Copland's "Billy the Kid," Chavez's "Symphony No. 4" and Dvorak's "New World Symphony."

The orchestra, established in 1948 by the International Federation of Jeunesses Musicales, performs each year in a different country under a different conductor. Last year the orchestra played in Spain, in 1982 in Hungary.

The United States has performed in the series once before—in 1974, under conductor Leonard Bernstein. Eduardo Mata, who will conduct the orchestra in its New Orleans performance, has been music director of the Dallas Symphony Orchestra since 1977.

Originally from Mexico, Mata has also served as principal conductor and musical advisor of the Phoenix Symphony Orchestra and has been active with the London Symphony Orchestra on a regular basis since 1978.

The average age of the musicians is 18 to 22 years old.

Approximately one-third of this year's orchestra members participated in last year's program. In general, no musician participates for more than two years.

For further information or tickets, call the UNO Lakefront Arena, 286-7222. Tickets to the UNO concert are $5 for general admission.

NEW WELDING TECHNIQUE—A Martin Marietta weld operator monitors a variable polarity plasma arc tool used to assemble the external propellant tank for the Space Shuttle at the NASA Michoud Assembly Facility in New Orleans. The new weld system, developed jointly by NASA and Martin Marietta Aerospace, reduces defects by 90 percent in the one-half mile of welds on each external tank. Savings of up to $100,000 per tank are expected when the plasma arc system is fully implemented.

New welding technique developed for shuttle tanks

A new variable polarity plasma arc welding technique will reduce manufacturing costs in making most of the one-half mile welds on Space Shuttle external propellant tanks.

The culmination of five years of research, the new technique was developed jointly by NASA's Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Ala., and by Martin Marietta Aerospace at NASA's Michoud Assembly Facility in New Orleans, La.

A replacement process for the more traditional tungsten inert gas welding, plasma arc will be used to make welds on each external tank. Currently, a vertical barrel weld tool uses plasma arc technology at Michoud and additional weld stations are scheduled for installation over the next few months. By 1986, 11 major weld tools will be converted to plasma arc to produce as much as 90 percent of the welds in each external tank.

Initially, plasma arc was developed as a cutting technique, but NASA and Martin Marietta explored the technique as a means of joining thin sheets of aluminum alloys that usually measured less than one-quarter inch thick. Side-by-side comparisons with other weld systems led to the first production line use of plasma arc welding at Michoud.

Plasma arc technology uses a key hole weld method and reversed polarity flow to produce a clean, effective weld. The computer-aided system first melts a hole through the metal, then continues to burn the hole along the weld line. Molten metal fills in behind the key hole, producing a defect-free weld.

During the weld operation, the surface polarity of the metal is reversed for four milliseconds during every 23 millisecond period. The reversed electrical polarity forces impurities out of the key hole, resulting in a cleaner weld.

The system minimizes preparation of the metal before welding, reduces the number of weld passes necessary for a reliable weld and decreases defects by 90 percent. As a result, cost savings per tank could exceed $100,000 when plasma arc tooling is fully implemented.

Plasma arc welding is making a significant contribution to Martin Marietta's efforts to reach production rates of 24 tanks per year by the late 1980s.

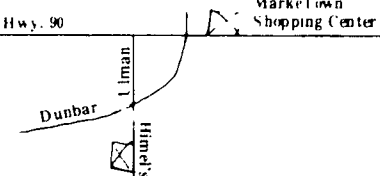

Martin Marietta assembles the giant external tanks at the Michoud Assembly Facility under contract to NASA's Marshall Space Flight Center. The external tank is the largest and only non-reusable component of the space Shuttle system.
